

Use the following thoughts and questions to have one spiritual conversation. You can pick and choose, use them all or just allow the statement to be your guide. The emphasis shouldn't be about having all the answers, but simply having a conversation.

1. Opening Statement

Begin your conversation by asking about this statement:

God's people work for the good of all who believe, the good of the world, and the good of their church.

This statement is the biblical truth the student's study was built around. Each week there will be one statement that ties the whole study together. These would be great statements to remember together. The hope is that thoughts and ideas will stem from these statements. You can also begin by sharing a thought of your own that you learned during your study of the same lesson. Ask what thoughts were surprising as the study was taught.

2. Thought From the Study

As God's people, we are called to work for the good of all—for both the world and the church alike. We work for the good of the world by fulfilling our role as salt and light so that our good works will lead others to give glory to God. We work for the good of the church by taking care of each other so that we might be strengthened for our involvement in God's mission of seeking and saving the lost.

What are some practical ways we can do good to all?

3. Quote for Discussion

Discuss this quote together. How does this change your understanding of a relationship with Jesus?

“Many Christians would prefer to hear ‘What a great guy’ from the crowd rather than ‘Well done, good and faithful servant’ from the Master.” —Billy Graham

4. Conversation Questions

Use these questions to begin thinking through and applying the lessons to your family life:

1. What are some ways we, as a family, could better serve our neighbors? friends? other family members?
2. What are some ways our family is currently serving other people in our church?
3. Would you say that our family is reflecting the light of Christ to others? Why or why not?
4. What are some things we could start doing better as a family to make sure we point others to Christ?
